

--- WA vs GA Worksheet by Linguajunkie ---

Wa is used to talk about something everyone knows about or to show something special. When you say "私は学生です" (I am a student), you're making it clear that being a student is important. "が" (ga) is used to state new info or make the subject very clear. For example, in the question "誰が来ましたか?" (Who came?), "が" shows you want new information about who came. Also, in "それが必要です" (That is necessary), "が" points out that 'that' thing is really needed. While there are cases where you can use wa or ga, the sentences below can only take one and not the other. This will give you a basic understanding of wa and ga. Look for FREE Japanese resources at the bottom of this PDF.
